BANKERS,

Government and other Desirable Securities
No. 5 Nassau St., N. Y., recommend to investors the
First Mortgage Bonds
OF THE CENTRAL
Pacific R. R. Co.,
This Company is constructing under the patronage of the UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT,
the Western end of the Great National Railway across the Continent
Their line will extend from Sacramento, California, across the Sierra Nevadas to the California State line, traversing the richest and most populous section of California, and thence through the great mining regions of the Territories, to the vicinity of Salt Lake City.
It forms the sole Western link of the only route to the Pacific, which is adopted by Congress and aided by the issue of UNITED STATES BONDS.
Their road is already completed, equipped and running for 94 miles from Sacramento to within 12 miles of the summit of the Sierras, and a large amount of the work of Grading, Tunnelling, &c., beyond that point has been accomplished.
The FIRST MORTGAGE BONDS of the Company afford unusual inducements of Safety and Profit to Investors, for the following among other reasons, viz.:
First. The rate of interest is Six per Cent. in Gold, payable semi-annually in the City of New York.
Second. The Principal is payable in Gold at maturity.
Third. The cost of the Bonds, Ninety-five per Cent. and accrued interest, is Ten Per Cent. less than that of the cheapest Six Per Cent. Gold Bearing Bonds of the Government.
Fourth. The United States Government provides nearly half the amount necessary to build the entire road, and looks mainly to a small percentage on the future traffic for re payment.
Fifth. Owing to this liberal provision, accompanied with Extensive Grants of Public Lands, by which the Government fosters this great national enterprise, its success is rendered certain, and its financial stability is altogether independent of the contingencies which attend ordinary railroad enterprises.
Sixth. The Security of its First Mortgage Bonds is therefore ample, and their character for safety and reliability is equalled only by that of the obligations of the Government itself.
Seventh. The net earnings of the completed portion are already largely in excess of the interest obligations which the Company will incur on twice the distance, and are steadily increasing, rendering the uninterrupted payment of the Interest absolutely certain.
Eighth. At the present rate of Gold they pay nearly 8½ per cent. per annum, on the amount invested.
The Bonds are issued in denominations of $1,000 with semi-annual Gold Coupons attached, payable in New York, and are offered for the present at 95 per cent. and accrued interest (in currency) from January 1st.
Orders may be forwarded to us direct, or through the principal Banks and Bankers in all parts of the country.
Remittances may be made in drafts on New York, or in Legal Tender Notes, National Bank Notes, or other funds current in this city, and the Bonds will be forwarded to any address by Express, free of charge. Inquiries for further particulars, by mail or otherwise, will receive punctual attention.

NEW YORK, June 5.
A letter from Havana, dated May 29th, says a royal order has been received valuing slaves at $500 or less. This is looked upon as a decided step towards the abolition of slavery.
The laying of the cable to Key West is soon to be commenced and will probably be finished during June.

NEW YORK, June 5.
A mixed convention of republicans assembled in Montgomery, Ala., yesterday. The officers were very impartially distributed among the races, Judge Smith, a white man, being elected President, and colored men receiving half the remaining offices.
Gen. Swayne, Gov. Patton and others were present
A motion to invite Judge Busteed to a seat on the platform was violently opposed by the negroes, and on its being renewed in the afternoon session the Macon county delegates seceded, whereupon the convention adjourned.

NEW ORLEANS, June 1.
Almost unanimous satisfaction is expressed by the press and public at the removal of Gov. Wells to-day. He still remains at the Executive Office as heretofore, and is preparing a protest against Gen. Sheridan's action, which will be sent to Washington. Wells' friends express confidence that he will be reinstated. He intends retaining possession of the office for the present.

NEW YORK, June 5.
Havana advices of the 1st inst., state that one of Maximilian's war vessels arrived there with a prize captured off the coast of Yucatan. As the prize can only be sold in a port held by the captors, it is unknown what course will be pursued by the Havana authorities.
The Cuban sugar crop is expected to fall short 10 per cent.
The market is active and firm at 7⅞. Trade is generally dull.

MR. GALT ON ANNEXATION. In remarking the other day upon the extra-Parliamentary utterances at the Galt dinner at Lennoxville, we said that, besides the points on which we touched, there were other noticeable things in the proceedings, to which we should hereafter have occasion to revert. Among these was certainly the observations which the late Finance Minister thought it his duty to make with respect to the United States. We have always considered that the constant allusion to the position of a neighboring government, as a motive for our own policy, was as mischievous as it seemed to us to be in bad taste. In fact a nation ceases to be truly independent from the moment that it bases the acts of its internal government upon either the fear of its neighbor or the desire to conciliate its neighbor. We never could comprehend the reasoning, if reasoning was so much as attempted, by which it was sought to prove, and we always doubted the assertion as a statement of affect that we must become annexed to the United States in case we did not adopt the nostrum of Confederation. However, we have adopted it, and, therefore, one would think that there should be an end of any speculation on the other of the two propounded alternatives. But Mr. Galt, not once but twice, has deliberately intimated to us that after all this wonderful panacea is by no means a certain prophylactic for the annexation disorder. To continue the medical simile, we may say that instead of its operating like vaccination to save us from disease, it is to be looked on rather in the light of inoculation, which brings on the malady in a favorable way.—The little dose of federalism, as applied to four Provinces, may, thus, on Mr. Galt's theory, be esteemed as the small quantity of virus by which the body politic will become impregnated with Federal Republicanism.—This is certainly a remarkable style of observation for one who is still virtually a Minister of the Crown, and in the mouth of a man like Mr. Galt it can scarcely be thought to be without some settled intention. However, as a correspondent has treated the subject elsewhere, we need say nothing farther upon it in this place.—[Montreal Herald.

MR. MILL ON WOMAN SUFFRAGE. A western stump orator once described an old fogy to be a man "running behind and treading on the coat-tails of Progress, and crying whoa! whoa!" But neither the foot nor the voice of the old fogy avails much in these days, when the impetus given to popular government by our success in crushing rebellion and more yet by the wise conduct of the American people and the stability and strength of our government during an unexampled trial, has aroused the hopes and strengthened the determination of the millions of Europe to become also rulers over themselves. The unwilling surrender of the English tories to reform is a direct result of our success in maintaining popular government here. The argument from the people of the United States to the people of England is unanswerable; so it would not do for an English politician to tell his people that they are less fitted for self government than the Americans.
But the leading English liberals do not stop where Mr. Disraeli would like them to stay. Mr. Gladstone is not content with the tory reform bill, and Mr. J. S. Mill moved, a few days ago, to confer the suffrage also upon women, and supported his motion in an able and brilliant speech, which we print in full elsewhere. Mr. Mill's proposition was treated by its opponents in much the same spirit as a similar one made in Congress a few months ago. There was ridicule, sarcasm, fun of a very dreary kind—but no serious effort at reply. The opponents of woman suffrage contented themselves with "retorts," as they are called, which remind us of the Irishman's retort upon the sheriff's deputy, who knocked at his door and called his name. Paddy flung open the second story window, and cried out, "Not at home!"
The officer would not take that for an answer; and the agitation for woman suffrage has now attained such strength, both in this country and in England, that we doubt if it can be laughed down. At any rate the speech of Mr. Mill deserves the attentive perusal of every thoughtful man; it is a clear, moderate, sensible statement of the question by one of the profoundest and clearest thinkers of the age. It begins to look, in England and here, as though women would be made voters whenever they choose to demand the suffrage.—[New York Post.

STARR KING IN CALIFORNIA. A gentleman said to me a few weeks ago, when I preached something like this in my own church, "I wish you could have known before you preached this sermon of the state of things I saw about the same time in California. I was there on that night when Starr King met San Francisco face to face, met the people who had come determined to put him down, determined to carry all before them, determined to carry California against the Government. My heart sank within me as I saw him stand there; one small, white angel against all hell let loose; but when he uttered his first sentence, and I saw the look in his face and the clear light shining from his eyes, and the poise of the marvellous, sinewy, little frame, and heard the rippling of those sweet and delicate sentences that one by one would come falling across the uproar when it was hushed in the least, I felt that God and Starr King together were more than all California, even if all California was on the other side, and I tell you that California was won more in the winning of this still small voice, than in all else put together."—[Robert Collyer.

BROWN STILL LIVES. Fifty-nine days this old gentleman lived without taking any thing in the shape of food—his frame wasted until nothing but skin and bone seemed left of a once robust man. The muscles supporting that portion around the stomach and bowels gave way, and fell into the backbone as he lay extended on his back.
On the sixtieth day he felt a desire to eat, and did partake of a little toast and coffee, and so for three subsequent days, but this gave him so much pain, that he desisted from further eating, and up to this time of writing, 19 days, he has not tasted food, and was still living this morning.
Many are disposed to treat this matter as a humbug, and say that the man eats. To all such we have but to say, go satisfy yourself upon that point; we are satisfied the man has not taken food except as we have stated. Here then, we have a man living in our midst, we might say eighty-two days without eating as much as would suffice to sustain a child, and twenty-eight days of total abstinence from food.

Reversal of Reconstruction Measures.
WASHINGTON, June 4.
An administration morning journal says that we may look for an order from the President setting aside the order deposing Messrs. Herron, Abel, and Munroe in Louisiana, the removal of the levee commissioners in that State, the order of General Griffin defining the qualification of jurors in Texas, the removal of the Mayor of Mobile, the suppression of the Republican newspaper in that city and the several acts of like character on the part of Gen. Sickles and other commanders.
All of the members of the Judiciary Committee have left for home.

WASHINGTON, June 4.
The democratic papers are in a state of frantic indignation at the result of yesterday's election. They charge the Republicans with almost every conceivable kind of fraud and corruption, and threaten all sorts of protests, contests, and investigations. It may be well to say that of the 84 ballot-receivers or commissioners of election, 56 were white men and 28 colored; 48 were republicans, and 36 democrats. The aggregate number of votes polled was not quite 14,000, which is more than 4000 less than were registered. At one precinct nearly 600 men were in line waiting for a chance to vote when the polls closed, and at each of the several other precincts there were over 100. The republicans carried 5 out of the 7 wards, electing all the officers on the general ticket, 16 out of the aggregate 21 members of the city council and 5 of the 8 aldermen. The democrats carried one of their wards by about 110 majority, and the other by about 275. The republican majority on the general ticket ranges from 1912 at the lowest to 2696 at the highest.
The Maryland democratic convention to revise the Constitution has disposed of the negro testimony question by adopting a provision declaring that no person shall be incompetent as a witness on account of race or color, unless hereafter declared so by act of General Assembly. This, it will be seen, throws the whole matter into the legislature, and what the action of that body will be is evident enough. One of its first acts after adoption of the new Constitution will undoubtedly be to declare negroes incompetent witnesses.—[Sp. to Boston Adv.

WASHINGTON, June 1.
A correspondence has just been completed between Secretary Seward and Baron Stoeckel, wherein the purchase of the Russian Possessions has been formally acknowledged by both Governments, although the money has not been paid over, and will not be until an appropriation is made by Congress. The Russian Minister to day informed Secretary Seward that the officials in Russian America had been instructed to admit all United States vessels to their ports free of duty.
Advices received by the Government show that Gen. Sheridan has removed all of the police force of Galveston, Texas, on account of disloyalty, and that he has also organized a Military Commission for the trial of civilians and others charged with crime.
Gen. Sam. Fessenden of Maine, and a brother of the Senator from that State, declines the position of Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, which had been tendered him. He prefers his position in the Patent Office.
The District Attorney stated to-day that he should proceed with Surratt's trial on Monday, and on the indictment for murder. The witnesses on both sides will number nearly a hundred.
The rapid increase in the Internal Revenue receipts anticipated for this time is being fully verified. They are averaging a million dollars per day and to-day they exceeded that amount.—Sp. to Boston Jour.

A CHAPTER FROM REAL LIFE. A few weeks since, while commenting in this paper upon the success of a great enterprise, we took occasion to allude in terms of deserved praise to a gentleman whose name is held in just esteem by hundreds of unfortunates who have had occasion to test his benevolence. The article was copied into a Southern newspaper, and in the course of a few days the gentleman in this city received a letter from a lady at the South, who related her indigent circumstances in such a truthful and pathetic manner that her missive bore evidence of the great distress which she was suffering. Inquiries were instituted through a correspondent, and it was ascertained that the widow with a family of children to support was no imposter. She had contrived to eke out a scanty subsistence by the use of her needle, till her eyes failed, when the battle of life became a contest which she was unable to endure, and in her hour of pressing need she applied for the charity of one who, though a perfect stranger, she felt sure would listen to her prayer. That she found her request granted we need not say, even more abundantly than she had dared to hope, and other kind friends participated readily in a little fund which had been raised to enable her to seek that rest which she so much needs. We ought to add perhaps that the lady is a niece of a former northern President of the United States, and was at one time resident at the White House.—[Boston Journal.

NEW YORK, June 4.
The Monitor Life-raft Nonpareil sailed for Havre this afternoon. Quite a crowd was in attendance at the Battery to see her off. Capt. Mikes and two men went on her. They expect to cross in fourteen or fifteen days.

PAPERS SUPPORTED AT THE SOUTH—HOW THEY TALK. It has been stated that the National Administration intends to sustain loyal papers in the South by official advertising—and it is a policy entirely fit to be adopted. But facts show that there is, to say the least, an unfortunate failure as yet to carry it out in some of the States. We copy below a few specimens of the "manner of politics" supported by some of the papers at least which now enjoy the patronage of the administration. We copy the extracts from the Boston Advertiser, which in introducing them says: "Without assistance a loyal newspaper cannot live in most of those places, where the business men and the whites generally are unreconstructed rebels. The freedmen are all learning to read, and it is important that they should have access to loyal local newspapers now. The amount of falsehood and misrepresentation pouring daily from the Southern press can hardly be conceived of, unless by one who has examined these papers for himself.

The success of this project, however, depends upon the manner in which it is executed. The term loyal is susceptible of various meanings. There is probably not a person in the South who will now confess himself to be a rebel. Andrew Johnson's idea of loyalty is quite different from that embodied in the reconstruction acts passed by Congress; and it would seem from the tone of some of the Southern newspapers which come to us containing the government advertisements, that the type of loyalty at the South is quite different from what is recognized as the genuine article in the community.

An illustration of this fact is before us—the Southern Recorder, printed at Milledgeville, Georgia, Tuesday, May 28, 1867. This sheet has eight solid columns of United States Bonds advertisements, and three columns of legal notices. Nearly one column is an Important Table—value of greenbacks in confederate money." The rest of the paper, excepting general business advertisements, is devoted to abuse of Congress, "radical" emissaries (meaning Senator Wilson and Mr. Kelley), negro suffrage, the usual talk about the war of races, etc. The articles generally are not original, but are mostly copied from such journals of the North as the Philadelphia Age, New York Freeman's Journal, and the World, condescending even to extract a column of such stuff as the following from the Portsmouth States and Union, "one of our spiciest exchanges, rich and racy in its thrusts at the radical party":—

Standing armies and free niggers at the South. Cold sour and splendid loyalty at the North. This comes of the great 'war for the Union,' as it is from the beginning in the months of the vilest party leaders ever inflicted upon a free people. Four thousand millions of debt now increasing, rolling up, expanding, stretching like a cloud of hideous blackness over the land, interest accumulating, burdens piling up higher and higher, more rag currency, more bonds, more taxes, more oppression, more misery. This is the entertaining feast prepared for our people. Look at it, ye toiling millions, ye hard-fisted, weary-limbed laboring men and women, and see how you like it. * * *

In six years the Republican party have undone the work of three generations of a century. The slave-driving aristocracy have been supplanted by the mobbing, stealing, plundering, liberty-crushing, country-dishonoring, brutality-exercising, God-defying, military aristocracy of the Rump Congress. Wilson and his Jacobin co-workers have free speech!

"Oh, yes, beautiful 'free speech!" the Southern editor adds. "Dry up, you poor lick-spittle of despots. Now 'give us your retort, you old blue bellied Federal" The following morsel the editor copies from the N. Y Freeman's Journal, and heads it,

A STRAW.—Let us prepare to repudiate the Lincoln war debt! When we do that labor will cease more make a good living for the laborers.

The following touching obituary appears in those loyal and delectable columns:—

DIED.—In Washington City, District of Columbia, on Monday, May 18, 1867, [when the Georgia injunction plot was quashed in the Supreme Court,] COLUMBIA LIBERTY, of paralysis, after a severe and protracted illness of seven tedious years.

The details in the life of the departed we give somewhat abridged.

The deceased was born in 1776. A happy union followed, and a numerous offspring rose up to bless her. But alas for human frailty! In an evil hour she listened to the honeyed words of an unprincipled fellow named Radicalism, not yet out of his teens. She resisted his advances for a while, but in in November, 1860, lost all sense of a womanly dignity, abandoned the partner of her youth, and took up with this young scape-grace. This faux pas created a lamentable disturbance in her once happy family. Eleven of her most loving children refused to live with this young step-father, and sought for themselves other homes. For this piece of consumacy the step-father disinherited ten of them, and dragging the eleventh back to the old homestead, he inflicted on her untold barbarities and outrages. The poor old mother, heart-broken by the disgrace of her household, was struck with paralysis, and has been bed-ridden for several years. Last Monday, after unbearable of suffering and anguish, she breathed her last.

Then follows some very affecting poetry, which concludes thus:—

"O God! that I should live
To look upon the same."

"The editor states that the official proceedings of the 39th Congress, which have appeared as advertisements in his paper since January, will close with the present number of the Recorder, and he will endeavor in future numbers to put a little more sauce in the matter the day pudding." No Yankee would say that it is at all necessary for the editor to increase his amount of that refreshing condiment.

"Perhaps Mr. Seward and Mr. McCulloch do not read attentively the newspapers of the South to which the bounty of their departments has been bestowed. Our copy of the Milledgeville Recorder is quite at their service."

Nesbit Dow, in his recent speech in London, said amold gentleman had lately asked him when the United States government were going to pay off the rebel bonds. His answer was—"When you pay off the Fenian bonds."

The Paris Presse says that the interchange of courtesies between the Emperors of Russia and France indicates accord on the Eastern question, and it adds that Austria must, whether she will or not, agree to the great Prussian-Russian-French combination and England can look on.

A New York paper says:—"California wheat, which sold recently in this market for $3.60 a bushel, will now hardly command $3. Flour is falling. Bakers, do you hear it? Grocers, do you feel it? Australia is now burdened with wheat, waiting freight to England, and England is sending lots of California wheat to the United States. We congratulate consumers upon this new and timely supply."

The cow fever rages in some sections of the country almost as badly as the hen fever did in this section a few years ago. In the last two months a gentleman of New York has sold Alderney and Ayrshire cattle from one to nine years old, at prices ranging from two hundred to five hundred dollars. Calves less than a year old have sold at from $100 to $150 per head.

The Cable Telegraph Company have refused to send any further despatches for our government without pre-payment of rates—the rule which applies to all other customers. This decision is the consequence of Secretary Seward's refusal to pay for the Bigelow despatch about the Russo-American treaty—$15,000—he claiming that the Russian government should pay that bill.

The charges made against Mr Newton, Commissioner of Agriculture, are that he is incapable, that his whole department is mismanaged, that he has refused to make correct statements to the Auditor since 1866, and that he has created new offices, and has made appointments to fill them, when he knew it was contrary to law to do so. Those who make the charges urge that the President remove Mr. Newton.

A boy named George Miller, aged 17 years, who was captured by the Blackfeet Indians in 1865, and stolen by the Cheyennes in the following year, has escaped and reached Denver. He reports five white women held captives, one of them the wife of a doctor at Council Bluffs. The Indians keep thoroughly posted with regard to military movements. They have many Spencer rifles, which they procured from traders. He says the Indians contemplate a general and simultaneous attack along the Platte early in June.

The Evansville Indiana Daily Sentinel, one of whose editors was an officer in the Federal army during the war, has a double-leaded leador in favor of Gen. Robert E. Lee for President in 1868. The editor says:—"Gen. Robert E. Lee is the first choice of a grand army of democrats in the North, who are not afraid to urge his claim before the country for that position for which God especially endowed him. The timid men of the party may tremble when his name is spoken, but the brave applaud."

A new mode of locomotion is being tried on the New York canals. A steel wire cable, five eighths of an inch in diameter, is laid on the bottom of the canal. This cable runs over a drum on the deck of the boat, and a small engine of four horse-power turns the drum, and the boat is thus drawn along. It is claimed that a boat of two hundred and fifty tons may be pulled along two miles per hour, with a consumption of only twelve hundred pounds of coal in twenty-four hours. A mile of cable has been laid at Buffalo for experiment. It is proposed to form a company to lay cables on the Erie canal.

DEATH OF REV. SEBASTIAN STREETER. The death of this well known Christian minister took place on Sunday at the residence of his son-in-law, F. A. Hammatt, Esq., in Somerville, Mass., at the advanced age of 84. He was settled as pastor of the First Universalist Church, in Hanover-st., Boston, May 13, 1824, and after some thirty years' service he relinquished the active duties of a profession which he had discharged most faithfully. He was widely known as Father Streeter, and during his life has united more couples in matrimony than any minister in this country.

TO BOUNTY CLAIMANTS. The Second Auditor receives hundreds of letters daily inquiring into the condition of claims for back pay and bounty, and urging their speedy settlement. When applications have been examined and found correct in form, they are put on file for settlement and are taken up in their regular order and without unnecessary delay; and as the answering of such letters would in no manner benefit claimants, but occupy much time which would otherwise be devoted to the settlement of claims, parties will hereafter be notified in each case, in the letter announcing the corrections of application, that all correspondence relating to the claims must be considered as terminated until final adjustment.

THE WASHINGTON ELECTION. The Republican triumph in Washington is more decided than had been anticipated. It shows that the White Republican force there is larger than had been estimated, while the blacks are a unit on the right side. The latter are not only reliable, but they are eager and zealous Republican voters to a degree that must have astonished those who have been pretending that the freedmen neither know nor care anything about politics. They know too much for those who once derided them, that would now be glad to use them. This election marks a new era in the political destinies of Washington, and it signalizes a new South, for what we now behold at the capital we shall see repeating itself with more or less exactness in a greater portion of the Southern States.

All the World Over.

There are but few spots on our globe where HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS are not known: and, when known, appreciated.

In the UNITED STATES and BRITISH AMERICA it has become a household old word. As a protective against malaria, epidemic fevers, Fever and Ague and other diseases, produced by miasmatic influences, it stands farinhead of all other preparations and is so considered by the most eminent physicians of the day.

In SOUTH AND CENTRAL AMERICA, MEXICO and WEST INDIES it has obtained a firm hold on the minds of the people, and is invariably relied upon as a certain preventive and cure for the many malarious diseases incident to those tropical regions.

In AUSTRALIA, TASMANIA, NEW ZEALAND, and adjacent Islands, its progress has been marvellous. Merchants, Miners, Farmers, Manufacturers and Squatters, all endorse it. Thousands already have it to thank for the immunity from the pernicious effects of miasma arising from the low swampy grounds so prevalent in those countries.

In CHINA and the EAST INDIES it is working its way with rapid strides, and is everywhere used in the hospitals.

In CONSERVATIVE EUROPE, even, its influence is being felt, and the day is not far distant when HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS will become in the old world what it now is in the new—a never failing joy to the afflicted. may 18sn

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILL.

A Certain Cure for Diseased Liver and the many Dangerous Maladies which are caused by a morbid condition of that organ.

To give the public a clear understanding of the mode in which SCHENCK'S Mandrake Pills produce those wonderful effects which are attested by thousands of reliable witnesses, we present a brief DESCRIPTION OF THE HUMAN LIVER and its functions, which will make the operation of this popular medicine perceptible to every man's understanding.

The liver is supplied with blood vessels, nerves and absorbants. One of the objects one is to secrete and prepare the bile. It likewise filters the blood and separates that fluid from all impurities. How indispensable necessary to health is the proper performance of this function! If the liver is diseased, it cannot purify the blood and if that is sent back through the lungs, brain and other parts in a morbid condition, it must cause jaundice, biliousness, obstruction of the kidneys, gravel, and many other complaints more or less painful and dangerous, but if any of them quite enough to make a man sick and uncomfortable, and unfit for the performance of any of the duties of life. This unhealthy state of the system very often ends in sudden and unexpected death.

The circulation of the blood is conducted in this manner:—The heart sends the vital current down through the arteries; it passes through the flesh, taking up all impurities in its progress; then the stream of blood flows backward through the veins, and passes to the liver to be purified. It is impossible to over estimate the importance, originating, or scarcely any other kind of ulceration, while this important organ, the liver, is diseased. It is for that reason that "regular physicians" rarely cure consumption.—They usually begin the treatment with the use of some cough medicine, the basis of which is morphine or opium in some shape, which locks up the liver instead of relaxing the secretions, giving a tone to the stomach, and producing a healthy flow of bile. Dr. Schenck's will strengthen the system, purify the blood, and ripen and heal ulcers on the lungs.

A volume would be required, to give a brief account of the remarkable cures performed by Dr. Schenck's medicines, viz: Pulmonic Syrup, Seaweed Tonic and Mandrake Pills—all of which are accompanied by full directions for the use of them.

DR. SCHENCK will be professionally at his rooms every week, 32 Bond street, New York, and 35 Hanover street, Boston, from 9 A. M. until 3 P. M. He gives advice free, but for a thorough examination with the Respirometer the charge is five (5) dollars. His medicines are for sale by all druggists and dealers. Also a full supply at all times at his rooms. Price of the Pulmonic Syrup and Seaweed Tonic, each $1.50 per bottle, or $7.50 the half dozen. Mandrake Pills 25 cents per box.

Commander George F. Emmons, commanding the U. S. steamer Ossipee, reports to the Navy Department under date of West Entrance of Magellan Straits, April 16th, that he left that place on the date of his dispatch, having removed over night to Sandy Point, where he communicated with the Governor of the Chilian settlement, and at his urgent request gave passage to one of his colonists to Valparaiso.

At Port Gallant Capt. Emmons found the English brig Julia Langley, which had entered the Straits some weeks previous, and put back from the crooked narrows, where they had been assailed by the natives in their canoes. Assistance was rendered the brig by the commander of the Ossipee.

At the West Entrance, and all along the Straits, the natives came to the side of the vessel in their canoes in an almost naked state, and were clamorous for tobacco and "fire-water," offering a few skins, etc., in exchange. They are becoming very bold and murderous since the Straits are now more frequented, and will give trouble to any vessel that may go ashore that is not manned with a number sufficient for self protection.

Officers belonging to H. B. M. Warren, now employed in surveying the Straits, were wounded by them recently.

Capt. N. Collins, commanding the U. S. steamer Sacramento, under date of March 28, announces his arrival at Cape Town, on the West coast of Africa, from St. Paul, Delos.

Intelligence has also been received by the Secretary of the Navy, of the arrival of the U. S. steamer Mohican at Panama, en route for San Francisco. All well.

Secretary McCulloch has issued a circular designating the following safety valves for steam boilers, as meeting in the highest degree yet attained the requirements of the law:

The American high and low pressure.
Second—The Robinson high and low pressure.
Third—The Farrar high and low pressure.
Fourth—The Mason high and low pressure.
Fifth—The McMurchy.

This action is taken on the recommendation of the Commission of life-saving inventions. The Secretary says it is also to be understood that this enumeration is by no means designed to exclude other valves, equally meritorious, that may be presented, but that the supervising inspectors are required to afford to all such a thorough and impartial examination, and accept any that may be found to possess merit equal to those now selected.

The Treasury Department is prepared to redeem U. S. compound interest notes, as they shall severally mature, by the payment of principal and interest thereon to the date of maturity, on their presentation to the Treasurer, or to either Assistant Treasurers of the United States at New York, Philadelphia or Boston.

The Secretary of the Interior has received a report from the Union Pacific Railroad Commissioners, that they find forty miles of that road, commencing at the 305th and terminating at the 345th mile post, ready for immediate service, and supplied with all the appurtenances of a first class railroad, and therefore respectfully recommend the acceptance by the Government of said section.

RALEIGH, N. C., June 5.

Chief Justice Chase arrived here this evening, and was welcomed at the depot by a large concourse of white and colored citizens.

The Mayor, on his arrival at the hotel, extended to him cordial greetings with appropriate remarks, to which Chief Justice Chase responded, thanking him for the hospitality extended him, saying the glad time had come when all stood in an equal light before the law, irrespective of color or previous condition.

His speech was received with enthusiastic applause.

HARTFORD, Ct., June 5.

The Rev. Joel Hawes, D. D., for nearly fifty years pastor of the First Congregational Church in this city, died in Gilead in this State, this forenoon, of congestion of the lungs. He had been suffering from a severe cold for several days, but on Saturday went to Gilead to supply the pulpit in the Congregational church. He preached there all day Sunday without seeming to feel any ill effects from his cold; but on Sunday evening he had quite an attack of hemorrhage, which terminated in congestion of the lungs. His mind was clear to the last, but he had much difficulty in speaking. A few hours previous to his death, in reply to a remark that he was almost home, the doctor said, "Oh, yes I am so thankful that the great work of preparation has not been put off until now." His wife was present at his bedside, when he died.

Dr. Hawes was the oldest pastor in the State. He was universally respected and beloved by all, and his loss will be much regretted by all who knew him. He was in his 78th year. His remains will be brought to this city to-morrow and the funeral will probably take place on Friday, from the church over which he has so long presided.

What Our Piscataquis Friends are Doing.

We have already stated the noble votes by which some of the principal towns in Piscataquis have agreed to aid the railroad from Dover to this city. We now give some of the letters received by Mayor Wakefield.

Hon. A. G. Wakefield, City Mayor, Bangor:

Dear Sir—Our respective towns voted for the railroad to-day, June 1st.

Dover votes twenty-five thousand five hundred dollars. Affirmative 246, nays 16.

A. M. ROBINSON,
Town Agent, Dover.

Foxcroft votes sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty dollars. Affirmative 184, Negative 2.

A. G. LEBROKE,
Town Agent, Foxcroft.

The affirmative vote would have been much larger but for the extraordinary pressure of farming business.

Truly, A. M. ROBINSON.

MILO, June 3, 1867.

Mayor Wakefield:

Dear Sir—The inhabitants of Milo, at a legal meeting holden this day, gave the following vote:

Voted, That the inhabitants of the town of Milo take stock in the Bangor and Piscataquis Railroad, now in contemplation to be built, in the sum of six thousand dollars, it being five per cent. on the valuation of said town of Milo for the year 1867. Provided said Bangor and Piscataquis Railroad Company shall locate and build said Road north of the Piscataquis River in Milo, at some point satisfactory to said Company, that will accommodate and convene the inhabitants of said town of Milo.

Respectfully yours,
J. H. MACOMBER.

THE PERILS ON THE RIVER. The editorial correspondent of the Farmer says that log driving in the Androscoggin has been a dangerous business this spring—no less than eight men having been drowned thus far. The streams were all bank full when he wrote. Our own river drivers well know and often experience the perils he describes when he says "it sometimes happens that a jam of logs is made on some fall in the river. The quick-eyed, head man, sees a log that is the key to the whole concern, which, when cut away will set the whole mass moving down stream. Some sturdy man boldly ventures out and cuts the log. In a moment the whole mass starts down the river, and bears with it the hardy man who has not time to escape perhaps, and he is not seen again for weeks, when his body is picked up miles below. Such is one of the phases of human life."

—The receipts of the Portland, Saco and Portsmouth Railroad Company, for the year ending May 31, 1867, were $529,325. Expenditures, $298,600. Net income, $230,824. After paying $94,736 in dividends to stockholders, and about $50,000 for increase of equipment, &c., over $109,000 was carried to the Surplus Fund, which now amounts to $317,370. The whole railroad business of Maine with the Union has to pass over this road at present, and it is of course a rich corporation, doing a fat business. And yet, when first built, it was considered about as poor property as any of our new roads further east.

Hence three-fourths of the Republicans of Bangor "did not exercise the privilege of voting against the measure," and, according to the Whig's emphatic logic, are to be "universally and justly considered as acquiescing in it." We therefore propose to take the Whig at his word and shall hold the Republican party strictly responsible for the infamous law endorsed at the polls on Monday last.—Democrat.

And as the whole of the Democratic party (nearly) refrained from voting, we may hold that entire party responsible for it.—We are willing to take the matter that way if the Democrat is.

THE WEATHER AND SEASON. Up to this present writing (Tuesday), the spring has been wet and cold; but with a few days such pleasant weather as has opened upon us after the rain of Monday, things will put on a different aspect and all kinds of vegetables will leap forward at a most rapid pace. There is no good reason for the discouragement many persons exhibit at the lateness of the season—there is yet time enough if it is at once improved, as we doubt not it will be, and with a few weeks longer season in the fall, all our crops will fully mature. Besides, the prospect for an abundant fruit crop was never better, and our grass, though late, will be heavy, and it is well to bear in mind that with sufficient means for wintering their stock, farmers can want for little—it is a failure of the hay crop that causes a famine.—[Farmer.

Letter from Belfast.

BELFAST, Me., June 5, 1867.

Messrs. Wheeler & Lynde:

It has at last been decided that Belfast is to have a public celebration of the anniversary of Independence. The exercises of the day will consist of the usual amount of speechifying in the forenoon with a horse trot on the Waldo County Agricultural Society's park, in the afternoon, between the Bisbee mare of Camden, and the Berry mare of Belfast. The evening will be devoted to fireworks and a grand bal. I understand an invitation will be extended to Hon. John A. Poor of Boston, to be present and speak upon railroad matters.

The Universalist Society here have engaged Rev. Giles O. Bailey, formerly of Gardiner, as their pastor, and he will enter upon his labors next Sabbath. The society is not large, but by the strenuous efforts of several of the leading members a large salary has been guaranteed. Rev. F. A. Hodsdon is yet here, but has not been able to perform the duties of pastor for many months.

The Allopathic practitioners of this vicinity have lately associated themselves together, elected officers, appointed committees, &c., and I suppose are thus better prepared to combat the enemy, whether it comes in the form of disease or the fast increasing "irregulars." J. G. Brooks, President; L. W. Pendleton, Secretary—both of this city.

All quiet on the liquor question. A little is sold on the sly and a considerable by the City Agency—some of the latter being obtained under false pretences. It is amusing to witness the dodges resorted to, to get a smack of the "critter." One day last week the agent being suspicious that all the liquor called for was not for "sick wives" as alleged, determined to ascertain where it went to. So one of the purchasers of a black bottle-full was followed and at last tracked to a store in the city, the proprietor whereof was an old "soaker" who had been on rather short allowance for some time. The bottle was demanded and taken possession of, but on examination was found to contain nothing but water, the contents having been changed. The parties were arrested, carried before the Police Court and duly fined for obtaining goods under false pretences.—One half the time and labor expended by a certain class of persons in devising ways and means of evading the law, and drinking and furnishing intoxicating drinks to others, would support them in some honest and respectable occupation, and make them decent members of society.

A meeting of the Belfast and Moosehead Railroad Company for the choice of Directors, will be held in this city on the 3d of July. It is proposed to survey the route immediately after their organization.

The ... of Register of Bankruptcy for ... candidates ... was taken up. This action, on the part of Judge Fox, has been the subject of much comment by those acquainted with the facts in the case.

The weather still continues to be a subject worthy of special reference. According to my record there were twenty-one days in May on which rain fell. June came in with another storm but we are now having fair weather with a prospect of continuance. It is too late to plant some kinds of crops, and farmers will have to depend principally on their hay and fruit crop—grass and apples promise well.

The vote of this city on the amendment to the liquor law ... was ... The vote was light and but little interest manifested.

Yours, ... QUIDAM.

TO-MORROW.

A bright little boy, with a laughing face,
Whose every motion was full of grace,
Who threw no frowns on the sunny hours,
But gathered the roses and left the thorns;

He was too young—this little elf,
With troublesome questions to vex himself;
But for some kind, though heedless one,
And bring a smile to the kindest eyes.

He went to one whom he thought more wise
Than any other beneath the skies—
"Mother"—O word that makes the home!—
"Tell me when will to-morrow come?"

"It is almost night," the mother said.
Most time for my boy to be in bed;
When you wak i up, and it's day again,
It will be, my child, to-morrow, then.

The little boy slept through all the night,
But woke with the first red streaks of light;
He pressed a kiss on his mother's brow,
And whispered, "It is to-morrow, now!"

"No, little Eddie, this is to-day—
To-morrow is always one night away."
He pondered awhile, but left unsaid,
And the vexing question quickly passed.

But it came again with the shades of night:
"Will it be to-morrow when it is light?"
For a year to come, he repeated care to borrow,
It tried so hard to catch to-morrow.

"You cannot catch it my little Ned—Easier to-day," the mother said.
"Learn well for to-morrow through many a year,
And it is always coming, but never here."

Benj. May's Ancient Enemy.

A log cabin out on the Western plains, which shows that drift and drift around it. Overhead a gray, darkly-shaded sk ens if you gaze up into it long enough to get the sp cit of its expression, to hold some agony of do ir, air or death.

There is, however, a kind of will, strong in it in the scene that has been made, expressing itself away from the window of a that lonely log cabin, standing there as a solitary witness of human life, in the midst of the wild, white dreariness of the p ains.

Perhaps the little girl feels this—she is not old enough to consciously think it—the little girl with a thin, sallow face—which somehow suggests fever and ague—flattened up against the pane, looking out with a singular alert wistfulness over the wide white plains and through the rushing gusts of snow, until her gaze touched the gray horizon afar off.

The winds come in furiously from the east, like the roaring of tides, or the trampling of battalions of armed men, and dash down with fierce fear and cry on the thick clouds of snow flakes, and hunt and drive them back and forth, and toss them up in white flocks, and tear them apart, and ride back and forth over the plains, making of the air one vast trumpet through which they shriek their literature of victory.

Inside of the cabin, a man's voice asks suddenly.

"Bessie, ch id, has nobody come in sight yet?"

A man's voice, I said, and yet struck through and through with some pain and hollowness which made you feel that its words were so rarely ended.

"No, father," answered the little girl drawing her thin, fe ed, wiry form from the window, "there s nothing to be seen in the blinding snow——

"Hark! don't you hear something?" said the hollow voice, breaking in here, sharp, hungry, impatient.

"No father, the wind blows and blows just is all."

The tones were those of a girl, but there was nothing a the low dreary voice that was at all like that of the child. Then the speaker turned to the fire, placed some fresh wood on the embers, and came back to her watch by the window, dreary work enough for any age, but doubly so to one whose life and not covered its fourteenth summer.

The room had a generally comfortless expression. Yet there was not, after all, so much lack of material as want of care and arrangement discernible throughout the entire apartment.

On the bed in one corner, lay the owner of the log cabin. One look into the shrunken face, the hollow eyes, all lying in that shadow of ashy pallor, and you would have been certain the man had laid himself down to die, and that the only guest who comes sooner or later over all the roads, had come now to that lonely log cabin out on the Western plains.

None could know it better than Josiah Keep, as he lay there, with the winter storm howling outside, and the years of his life coming up one after another, and standing with their solemn reproachful faces before him.

For this man's life had not been a good one. I cannot go into the details here of selfishness which had marred, and passion which had defiled his days, but the end had come now, and the hard, strong, fierce will had bowed itself at last before the solemn voices of conscience echoing amid all the tumult of his soul, as it glared face to face with death.

There was one deed of Josiah Keep's life which somehow troubled him more than all the others, and from it he in some sense dated the commencement of his wrong career, although he self-willed, reckless, passionate boyhood and youth had ripened into the hard selfish, defiant manhood.

Here, too, it is sufficient to say he had overreached his partner in a manner which the law could not take hold of, he had, to many, his own fortune, completely wrecked the other's, and the wrong had not ended there. It had been the means of driving his partner's young wife—a fine-souled, sensitive woman, to madness and to her grave.

Afterward Josiah Keep had prospered for years, for "sentence is not always executed speedily against an evil work," but at last his goods and possessions began to fall away from him.

He had passed the meridian of his life when misfortune overtook him. Then his wife, and one and another of his children died. Ill health came upon the strong man, and the lonely log cabin on the plains, where he had buried himself for a couple of years, and the one little soul who cheered daughter who remained of all the brave sons and fair girls who had called him father, tell the rest of the sad story of Josiah Keep.

In latter life, the partner whose young manhood he had so cruelly blighted, had prospered on every hand, a good man, with a ripe, tender nature, full of broad sympathies, such as one does not often see. Everybody said this of Benjamin May.

And two or three weeks before, the sick man had learned through a neighbor, that business had brought the former partner to town nearest to his log cabin, and only a few miles away. At first it seemed to him that the world itself could not hire him to look in the face of one whom he had so wronged; but as the sad dread rose and resolved itself moments crowded fast upon him, the first feeling was superseded by a great hunger and craving to hear Benjamin May's voice say that he forgave him, for God is more merciful than men thought Josiah Keep.

So two days before he had hired a neighbor to go in quest of Benjamin May, desiring the latter to come to him, as he hoped for mercy in his sad necessity, and no delay even then to disclose his real name, lest the old bitterness should rise up in the soul of the other, and he would refuse to grant what he could only be obtained by the prayer of Josiah Keep.

So he lay there, with the tide of his life going out, and the lights burning low, while the storm shouted fiercely outside, and death was that young girl watched by the sick man.

"He called, at last—as she was at his side by a sudden impulse.

"How sick you do look, father, smoothing the iron-gray hair with one hand and looking at him, her small, sallow face full of a great pity and grief, although Bessie Keep had no idea of that unseen presence just now crossing the threshold.

"Bessie, poor little Bessie, what will become of you!" said the dying man, looking with a craving tenderness which it seemed
